La piedra es el material más antiguo utilizado por el ser humano. Las piedras o materiales pétreos provienen de las rocas. Se trata de sólidos homogéneos de carácter inorgánico compuestos por uno o varios minerales. De hecho, nuestra relación con la piedra ha motivado que la primera etapa de nuestra evolución la conozcamos con el nombre de Paleolítico.

Nuestros antepasados comenzaron a tallar la piedra para fabricar herramientas y útiles de muy diversos tipos, desarrollando una amplia capacidad de técnicas líticas que fueron evolucionando conforme avanzaba la capacidad del ser humano. Pero sobre todos ellos, este material ha destacado como componente fundamental por su uso en la construcción. Hemos recurrido a la piedra y sus derivados para levantar refugios, viviendas y alojamientos; muros, cimientos, columnas y pilares.

La piedra es el material que mejor se conserva y más conocido de los que sirvieron para producir las primeras herramientas.

Stone is the oldest material used by humans. Stones or stony materials come from rocks. They are homogeneous solids of an inorganic nature composed of one or several minerals. In fact, our relationship with the stone has motivated us to know the first stage of our evolution by the name of Paleolithic.

Our ancestors began to carve stone to make tools and tools of many different types, developing a wide range of lithic techniques that evolved as the capacity of the human being advanced. But above all of them, this material has stood out as a fundamental component for its use in construction. We have resorted to stone and its derivatives to build shelters, houses and lodgings; walls, foundations, columns and pillars.

Stone is the best-preserved and best-known material used to produce the first tools.
